

3rd Annual Silverthorne Fine Arts Festival July 9, 10, 11, 2021

Meg Harper

Juried fine art festival featuring artists in 13 fine art categories including painting, photography, jewelry, glass and more!

FREE ADMISSION AND FAMILY FRIENDLY
10am-5pm Daily

Alison Stern

MOUNTAIN art festivals

Proudly producing art festivals in Summit County for over 40 years!

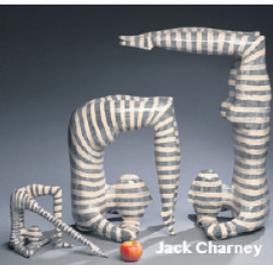

www.MountainArtFestivals.com

Tom Heywood

Gretchen Borgelt

Jack Charney

Reporter Notebook

If you have information you'd like to see included, email news@summitdaily.com

Weather

Fires from outside Summit County create hazy conditions

On Saturday, Summit County sent out a text alert reporting that smoke in the area is from fires outside the county and that there are no current fires within county limits.

According to a Facebook post from the Summit County's Sheriff's office, the haze is caused by major wildfires burning to the west of Colorado in Idaho, Montana, Oregon and California. The haze is also caused by the Sylvan Fire in neighboring Eagle County and the Morgan Creek Fire in North Routt County.

The National Weather Service issued an air quality alert that will last until at least 4 p.m. The service says the maximum temperature for the day is 85 degrees with a minimum temperature of 60 degrees.

On Friday, Summit County went from Stage 2 fire restrictions to Stage 1 restrictions. The move came after changes to the county's four restriction criteria: energy release component, fuel moisture thresholds, weather patterns and the potential for human-caused ignitions.

— Jenna deJong

Highs will stay in the 80s through much of the coming week

The long-range forecast calls for high temperatures to stay in the low 80s with chances for afternoon storms through Thursday of this week.

— Summit Daily staff

A&E

Meet pro snowboarder Brian 'Wookie' Fleming at book signing today

Vail Valley resident and author Laura Loeff will be in town with pro snowboarder Brian "Wookie" Fleming to sign copies of Loeff's book, "Wookie Is Not His Real Name." Published in February, the biography provides a comprehensive look into snowboard culture through Fleming's eyes.

RIVER REPORT

Blue River
Noon: 184 cfs
6:15 p.m.: 180 cfs
Highest: 1,770 cfs in 1995
Lowest: 49.8 cfs in 2004
Average: 500 cfs
Measured Saturday in cubic feet per second below Dillon Reservoir.

North Tenmile Creek
Noon: 82.9 cfs
6:15 p.m.: 77.4 cfs
Highest: 877 cfs in 1995
Lowest: 38.8 cfs in 2012
Average: 233 cfs
Measured Saturday at Frisco.

Source: U.S. Geological Survey

Fleming was told he would never walk again after a career-ending injury. Since then, he pushed through physical, mental and emotional challenges to make it back on his feet and back on a board.

Loeff is also a writing tutor at Colorado Mountain College and hosts a radio show called "Bite the Bullet" on 107.9 Radio Free Minturn.

The signing takes place from 2-3 p.m. today, at Next Page Books & Nosh, 409 Main St., Frisco. For more information, visit LauraLoeff.com/book.

— Summit Daily staff

Be wildfire READY

BE FIRE SMART & SAFE

Summit County is in STAGE 1 fire restrictions

NO open fires (except with active permits from the fire department or in permanent Forest Service campground fire rings)

NO outdoor smoking (except in designated areas)

NO fireworks, explosives, tracer ammunition or exploding targets

AND MORE RESTRICTIONS

LEARN MORE

summitcountyco.gov/wildfire

